We loved our forest school session on Monday. Jacqui brought along the pond dipping equipment so the children used their observational skills to learn what life can be found in the pond in early spring.

A few children managed to capture animal footprints with plaster of Paris from the forest floor. The mud kitchen was as popular as ever, as were the salt dough creatures, binoculars and animal soft toys for imaginative play.

Many boys in the class made hooks out of string and sticks and enjoyed lassoing these in the trees!

Jacqui also treated us to hot chocolate and sticky home-made lemon cake to round off the perfect afternoon. Yummy!

Our Science lesson also took place outdoors this week.

The children explored toys made out of different materials and tested if they could change the shape of the materials by bending, pulling, pushing or twisting.

We also thought about why certain materials were being used to make the equipment. For example, why are skipping ropes made out of plastic instead of wood? Why are footballs made out of leather?
